MORE THAN MONEY

Discipline proves sonship. Wealth alone does not.

JACOB

Jacob = Deceiver

Wrestled with God, refined through discipline — and still blessed with great wealth.

GENESIS 30:43

God changes his name and his character.

Israel = Struggles with God

ESAU

Wealthy, but never disciplined. His line, Edom, was later wiped out for abandoning Judah in need.

OBADIAH 1:10-14

Both men had wealth. Only one had the discipline that proves sonship — the kind God gives every child He calls His own (Hebrews 12:8).

"If you are without chastening ... you are illegitimate and not sons." — Hebrews 12:8

Boaz Strategic helps leaders pursue righteousness first, and steward well whatever follows.

Is it discipline, or just dollars?

“ If you are without chastening ... you are illegitimate and not sons. — Hebrews 12:8

Jacob wrestled with God, was disciplined by Him for years under Laban, and still ended up wealthy.

The distinction was never the outcome. It was the process that got him there.

Esau also grew wealthy, but he never wrestled, never was refined. Generations later, his descendants, Edom, refused to help Judah when attacked, and looted the spoils instead.

For that, Edom was wiped out (Obadiah 1:10-14). Wealth without discipline didn't protect them. It never does.

Scripture is direct about what actually proves sonship: “If you are without chastening... you are illegitimate and not sons” (Hebrews 12:8). Not wealth. Discipline.

God isn't against financial gain — He blessed Jacob abundantly. But the blessing never came at the expense of his character.

Pursue righteousness, not wealth. Then steward well whatever He puts in your hands.

At Boaz Strategic, we help leaders pursue righteousness first, and steward well what follows.
